

RENEE CLARKE

Founder & Community Activist

ABOUT ME

I am a resident of Prince Georges County, MD. After my two-year stint as a Washington Football Team cheerleader, I volunteered in my local community. Throughout my adult life, I worked with non-profit organizations, churches and groups to help at risk youth.

After meeting late Congressman John Lewis, I formed the Good Trouble Think Tank to honor his life and legacy. The Good Trouble team hosts virtual meetings the 2nd & 4th Wednesday at 7:00pm.

In my spare time, I enjoy spending time with my grandchildren photography, web design, and live entertainment. I aspire to become a public speaker inspiring all to Get Into Good Trouble.
